Biblical Theological Seminary is committed to the gospel of Jesus Christ and a generously orthodox Christian faith for the purpose of preparing missional leaders to serve the church. We are intent on maintaining the following convictions in the life and work of our community.

In 1971 Dr. Allan A. MacRae and Rev. John (Jack) W. Murray stood in the parking lot of a vacant elementary school and prayed for God's help in establishing a new theological school that would forward the vision God had laid on the hearts of both men. Allan MacRae was a gifted Bible scholar and communicator, and Jack Murray a well-known evangelist with a knack for presenting the message of salvation.

Together they represented two passions that would become hallmarks of Biblical Theological Seminary — a deep desire to search and understand the Scriptures and a keen interest in effectively reaching people with the hope of the gospel. We believe God heard their prayer. BTS aspires to continue manifesting God's answer to that prayer in our current endeavors, including through the unanimous adoption of this missional convictions statement.
